Stop spending my hard earned tax dollars on a witch hunt. No-body said Boo or anything to the contrary when Bill Gates started Microsoft. Every body wanted to jump on the band wagon then. Now that he has become successful and is worth billions, keeping Americans employed and pumping billions back into the economy, a few want to level the playing field, for fair play???. When you guys level the playing field in a lop-side college football game then and only then can you start attempting to level the playing field in the economic sector. THOSE THAT WORK HARD GET REWARDED, THOSE THAT CRY FOUL SHOULD GO BACK TO THE DRAWING BOARD AND GET SOME MORE PRACTICE TIME, or come up with something that the American public wants to buy...LIKE BILL DID...Get off Bills' case and start hounding that other billionaire that's creating so much news these days...He's the EVIL ONE....
